Cost - Video Conferencing

The requesting party must pay all cost associated with the video conference. The location of the remote site and the length of the call will determine the final cost of the event.

In-State

In-State video conferences have the potential to be free if the remote site is connected to the State of Florida's court network and the IT department can coordinate the event. Most courthouses in the state are connected to this network.

Remote locations that are not connected to the State of Florida's court network, and video conferences that can not be coordinated with another courthouse will incur an hourly expense from a third party vendor (listed below.)

Out-of-State

Out-of-State video conferences will incur an hourly cost. A third party vendor will be used to make the connection between the First Judicial Circuit and the other state. A typical out-of-state one hour video conference will have the following cost (subject to change by the vendor):

Room Rental of Remote Site:	$150/hour
Line Charge:	$100/hour
Bridging Services:	$75/hour
Scheduling Fee:	$50/conference
Total:	$375

International Video Calls

A typical international video conference lasting one hour will cost approximately $700 (subject to country).

State Attorney/ Public Defender Procedures

Before scheduling a video conference for a trial or hearing the State Attorney and Public Defender must have prior approval from the presiding judge.

Payment authorization must be obtained from an agency supervisor prior to scheduling a video conference. Payment can be made by credit card or purchase order.

The State Attorney and Public Defender must make their own court reporting arrangements and be prepared to have the remote participant sworn in if necessary.

All video participants must bring a picture ID to the video location.

All video participants must be present 20 minutes prior to the video conference for sound check and instructions.

Video Conferencing Tips

Only one person should speak at time.

Only one site should speak at a time.

Remember to pause for others to comment.

Extraneous noises such as shuffling papers or tapping can be heard by the microphone and can be a distraction to the remote participants.
